Incline High School Families,

Welcome to the first full week of November. November is a wonky month with Election Day, Veterans Day, a snow day thrown in, and Thanksgiving break. One teacher commented, "It feels like no school November." Of course, teachers enjoy a day off like anyone else, Highlander staff want students in school to assure students are prepared for, We the People Competitions, AP exams, semester finals etc.

Regarding snow days, we currently have three contingency days added to the end of our calendar year to be used as needed. We have used one contingency day so far, and should the other two be utilized, then the Nevada Department of Education has approved that we can move to Digital Learning Days to prevent learning loss. (See calendar below)

Please remember we have Tuesday & Thursday Study Club (think free tutoring) from 2:30 – 4:30 p.m. in the Career Center. This free academic support is paid for by a grant we received from the federal government. We have our own teachers from the Math, English, Social Studies, and Science departments here. We've found having our own teachers tutor is a huge advantage for student success.

Our prestigious We the People team has kicked off their season and are busily preparing for the district competition that will in person at Reno High School on December 10th. Reno HS may or may not be our nemesis and perennial foe. We have a very enlightened team of 19 scholars, 8 of which had siblings that were WTP alumni scholars. The State competition will be on Saturday, February 4th. We are very fortunate to have coaches assisting in preparing our scholars by Zoom from: Wyoming, Dallas, San Francisco, Washington D.C., Chicago, and Reno. Our network of scholars and legal minds that give to our program are remarkable. The lessons learned from this program are gifts like civil discourse, critical thinking, persuasive argument, public speaking, and research.

Wrestling has been resurrected!

Please welcome alumni coaches, Cody Feliciano and Arturo Fragosa. They will be leading our newly renewed Highlander Wrestling Team! Boys and Girls can tryout!

Helping High-School Seniors Think About their Futures

In this Edutopia article, Wisconsin high-school teacher Kimberly Hager suggests ways to get seniors engaged in activities that combat “senioritis” and thinking more about where they’re headed:

- Job shadowing – Students spend at least one half-day with an adult who works in a field that interests them. “Most students know this is something they should do,” says Hager, “but I have found that unless they get a nudge or push, they simply don’t.” Students who are uncertain about what lies ahead are encouraged to shadow in more than one work setting.

- Interviews – Seniors ask a series of questions of people in the field they’re considering, and also interview an adult who seems happy and successful.

- A different type of career paper – Students research the myths and little-known facts about a path they’re considering. Writing this paper “is often an eye-opening experience,” says Hager.

- Exploring the “why” behind their plans – Over several weeks of job visits, interviews, and research, students are asked to respond to a series of writing prompts:

- What are things that energize you?
- What drains your energy?
- What are your ten top values?
- Describe activities where you experience “flow,” losing track of time.
- What is your dream job?

Students also create three collages: one of what interested them as a child; one of their current interests; and one of their future selves. In addition, students write an alphabetical autobiography (a descriptive word for every letter of the alphabet) and explore articles about the value of work and how it can be more than a paycheck.

As graduation approaches, students are challenged to look over all this material and pull out the connections. Some might be obvious – an early interest in Legos, robotics in high school, a career in engineering. Or there might be a looming contradiction: family as a stated value but interest in a career that will involve working 60 hours a week.

“Near the end of this process,” says Hager, “students craft their purpose statement. We then discuss how that statement can help guide them right now and how it will change as they continue to gain experiences and knowledge. We use all this work of self-exploration as a catapult to throw us into personal essays that can be used for admissions, scholarships, or interview prep. Students also pull from their self-discovery work when we prepare professional resumes.”

Student Leadership News

Hello IHS Parents,

On Monday, November 21st, the recognition committee of student leadership is running a taco/burrito lunch for IHS staff to show our thankfulness for our amazing faculty! It would be greatly appreciated if parents would bring food to the front office between 8 am and 11 am on that day. To sign up and show your appreciation for our staff members, please fill out this Signup Genius form so we can organize the food assignments:

COVID

Please continue to use the District's COVID self-screener (the screening tool) every day before leaving for school and be vigilant about handwashing and other measures to keep yourself safe throughout the day. This past week we had 1 positive COVID case. Although we are no longer excluding students and adults who may have been in close contact with an individual having COVID, in a school setting exposure is always a possibility. If you or your child is experiencing any symptoms outlined on the self-screener, please follow those directions closely. Additional guidance regarding what to do if you are ill or if you have been in close contact can be found here (this webpage).

Por favor, continúe usando la autoevaluación de detección de COVID del distrito (la herramienta de detección) diariamente antes de salir a la escuela y esté atento al lavado de manos y otras medidas para mantenerse seguro durante el día. Esta semana pasada tuvimos 1 caso positivos de COVID. A pesar de que ya no excluimos a los estudiantes y adultos que puedan haber estado en contacto cercano con una persona con COVID, en un entorno escolar la exposición es siempre una posibilidad. Si usted o su estudiante están experimentando alguno de los síntomas que se indican en la autoevaluación, por favor, siga las instrucciones de cerca. Orientación adicional sobre lo que debe de hacer si usted está enfermo o si ha estado en contacto cercano, está aquí (esta página web).
